PRICE THREE CENTS.

ARREST OF PENDLETON BECOMING MORE QUIET. MADE NIGHT HIDEOUS.

The Cubans in Key West Are Greatly Stirred Up.

WILL RESENT ANY HARM. SPECULATIVE WOOL SALES.

If Any Attack Is Made on Mr. Pendleton at Havana the Cubans Propose to Reciprocate on Spanish Consulate.

Jacksonville, Fla., Nov. 28.—A special from Key West says the Cubans of that place are greatly stirred over the arrest in Havana of C. E. Pendleton. It is claimed that any harm done him in Havana will be reciprocated by an attack on the Spanish consulate at Key West.

Pendleton sent word by the steamer Aransas that he would telegraph concerning certain matters, but nothing has been heard from him. The people will wait the arrival of the Olivette before any action is taken.

WHAT CARNegie PROPOSES. He Will Reduce the Freight Rate on Iron Ore Materially.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 28.—Railroads connecting Lake Erie with iron, coal and steel producing districts will be required to reduce the carrying charges on these commodities. Andrew Carnegie has asserted over his signature that the railroad from Conneaut to Pittsburgh, in which he is interested, expects to make the investment pay on a basis of three mills per ton, mile, which means that he believes iron ore can be transported to the furnaces for about 45 cents per ton. The present charge is $1.05.

Proposed Japanese Steel Plant. Cleveland, O., Nov. 28.—A party of five Japanese gentlemen, who have been detailed by the government at Tokyo to make a tour of this country and Europe in order to secure ideas to be utilized in the construction of an immense steel plant in Japan, have arrived here. The Japanese government will purchase $2,000,000 worth of machinery for the new factory. Steel rails will be made the principal product. The party is headed by Machitaro Oshima, technical director of the Imperial Steel works of Japan.

Teachers of English. Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 28.—The third annual conference of the Association of Teachers of English of the North Central States opened here in conjunction with the twenty-seventh meeting of the Michigan Schoolmasters' club. President Angell of the university welcomed the members present and responses were made by representatives of other colleges.

Morley Is Dismissed. Washington, Nov. 28.—The secretary of the treasury has dismissed William M. Morley, engineer of the public building at Denver, for collecting political assessments from government employees in violation of the civil service law. Morley's room in the postoffice building was a political headquarters during the campaign.

Burt Found Guilty. Austin, Nov. 28.—The jury in the Burt murder trial found him guilty of murder in the first degree. The crime for which Burt is to hang was the murder of his wife and two children on July 24 last. He threw their bodies in a cistern. He then went to Chicago, where he was arrested on Aug. 29.

The Amount Stolen. Lebanon, Pa., Nov. 28.—The amount of money stolen by Cashier John H. Hoffer from the First National bank of Lebanon is $110,173. There were other transactions with Lebanon banking institutions which it is stated will swell the amount of his peculations to $200,000.

In Honor of Murdered Students. Tampa, Fla., Nov. 28.—The Cubans of this city held their annual mourning celebration to commemorate the execution of the eight medical students who were the victims of a vicious Spanish mob in Havana on Nov. 27, 1871.

Temperature in Kansas. Kansas City, Nov. 28.—The temperature in Kansas ranged from six to ten degrees above zero. In Oklahoma it averaged about 18 degrees above. The thermometer in Kansas City fell 48 degrees between noon and 7 a. m.

Denial of Bishop Mats. Chicago, Nov. 28.—Rev. T. H. Malone of Denver who is in Chicago received from Bishop Mats of Denver a dispatch authorizing a denial of the report that the bishop had applied for a transfer to the see of St. Cloud, Minn.

Storm in Kansas. Kansas City, Nov. 28.—The first heavy storm of the season prevailed in Kansas.

Rush of Orders in Trade Circles Has Slackened.

Speculative Wool Sales.

Broadly Speaking the Gain in Trade Has Been Greater Than Expected. Notable Features in the Business World.

New York, Nov. 28.—R. G. Dun & Company's weekly review of trade says: When the rush of orders after the election slackened many began to think business dwindling. Subsidence of deferred orders is not decrease of business.

Broadly speaking the gain has been greater than anybody expected, and it is not surprising if a small part of it is in excess of the present consuming demand.

Reports from all parts of the country show clearly the enlargement of trade. Extremes of weather have made the work not altogether good for retail trade, but in that line also there is improvement on the whole.

Wheat has risen over 6 cents for the week, without material change in foreign advices which have been on the whole less stimulating. Western receipts are falling behind last year's, and for four weeks past have been only 19,012,581 bushels, against 27,992,512 last year, while the exports, flour included, have been 6,270,881 bushels in the same week against 6,265,018 last year and are not large enough to create excitement.

But 13 cargoes have left Tacoma in November and 30 have left San Francisco with 12 more loading and 40 engaged.

Corn has sympathized with wheat only a little and is coming forward freely. The most important factor in the wheat market is that the visible supplies do not gain as much as has been expected.

Wool was and is still bought largely for speculation and earlier purchasers are unloading on the latter, but the mills are not yet doing much more than in October. A few more have been started, but there is scarcely more demand apparent for staple goods.

Including speculative operations the sales of wool have been for four weeks 37,814,300 pounds, of which 26,212,000 were domestic, against 24,296,050 last year, of which 13,331,750 were domestic.

The collapse of the nail combination and probably of the beam combination and considerable reduction in quotations for nails and beams, gave reason to look for a larger demand for products of iron and steel, but at present the sales against speculative purchases made some time ago are depressing prices.

Failures for the week have been 300 in the United States against 279 last year, and 38 in Canada against 47 last year.

SENATOR DUBOIS TALKS.

Thinks No Attempt Will Be Made to Pass Dingley Bill.

Salt Lake City, Nov. 28.—Senator Dubois of Idaho says in an interview that he has no idea that there will be any attempt to pass the Dingley bill at this session of congress, that it is a piece of legislation that failed at the last session and ought to fail at any session.

When asked about the policy of the silver senators in the next congress he said: "They will hold the balance of power in the senate and will not don't continue their aggressive fight for silver, making all other issues subordinate to that. No matter what kind of a tariff we have, there can be no prosperity except for the few under the gold standard."

Corbett-Fitzsimmons Talk.

New York, Nov. 28.—Warren Lewis of the Greater New York Athletic club visited the office of District Attorney Backus in Brooklyn for the purpose of ascertaining if his club would be given a permit for the proposed Corbett-Fitzsimmons bout. Mr. Backus declined to decide the question, but promised to give Mr. Lewis another hearing.

Weyler Speaks Out.

Havana, Nov. 28.—Captain General Weyler has made a lengthy statement in reference to his recent military expedition into Pinar del Rio. He says he went all over the northern hills and occupied the positions of the insurgents without any serious resistance on the part of the enemy.

Want More Cavalry.

Washington, Nov. 28.—The president has appointed John H. Rogers of Arkansas United States district judge for the western district of Arkansas. Judge Rogers was at one time in congress.

THREE MEN FATALLY SHOT.

Miners Celebrate Their Thanksgiving by Drinking and a Veritable Reign of Terror or Enthusiasm of the Ringleaders.

Pittston, Pa., Nov. 28.—Three men were fatally shot and several others more or less seriously wounded in a drunken riot at Duryea. The dead are: James Mottis, shot in abdomen; Frank Lambert, shot in breast three times, and John Betts.

Duryea is a mining village three miles north of Pittston, and there is a large colony of foreigners there. They celebrated Thanksgiving day principally by drinking and the tavern of Anthony Paley was their headquarters.

Respectable residents of the town declare that the night was a veritable reign of terror in which it was unsafe to be at large.

The shooting occurred about 3 a. m. A party of Americans taunted the foreigners. This led to a quarrel.

The authorities started an investigation and arrested Paley, the saloon keeper; his bartender, William Cosgrove; James Ryan, James Brady, J. Clark, Samuel Barclay, J. Flood and Alexander Wylly. They are charged with being the ringleaders in the riot. While they were being taken to Pittston Barclay and Flood escaped from the constable, and fled to the mountains.

COLD AT DENVER.

The Thermometer Registers Below Zero—Mountains of Snow.

Denver, Nov. 28.—With the exception of 1877, 1880 and 1887, Friday was the coldest day ever known in Denver in November since 1871, prior to which year there is no official record. The weather bureau thermometer registered 9.2 below zero at 6 a. m. Passengers on the incoming trains tell of a severe blizzard in eastern Colorado and the neighboring state of Nebraska.

The snow has fallen steadily for two days and the wind blowing at will over the rolling land, meeting with no obstruction has piled drifts as high as 10 to 20 feet. As soon as a track has been cleared the rails freeze, the snow falling upon them, and trains of a necessity proceed cautiously.

Names of the Robbers.

Kansas City, Nov. 28.—The police gave out the men's names as Oscar Bridges, Eugene Ridgeway, Ernest Ridgeway and James Reppine. All are under 22 years. They attempted to hold up a loaded electric car. The Ridgeway boys live at Sheffield, a small suburb near the scene of the holdup. Eugene is a barber and Ernest is a professional high diver. Reppine, who is 21 years old, comes of respectable parents and lives at Centropolis, a suburb of Kansas City.

Will Receive Cash.

New York, Nov. 28.—Holders of the first mortgage bonds of the Oregon Improvement company are notified by Chairman J. I. Waterbury of the reorganization committee that upon depositing their bonds with the Manhattan Trust company or the Old Colony Trust company of Boston, before Dec. 15, they will receive cash for the coupons on the bonds maturing Dec. 1 as well as for any coupons thereon which matured on June 1 last.

PULLED UP. HE GRASS.

A Texas Cyclone Does Some Destructive and Peculiar Work.

Waco, Tex., Nov. 28.—The cyclone that raged 20 miles from here devastated a strip of country one mile wide and eight miles in length. A number of farmhouses were demolished in the vicinity of Mart, McLennan county, and information comes from Rese, six miles from Mart, that the residence of Buck Douglass was totally destroyed, his wife severely hurt and one of his children killed outright. Five persons were more or less injured as far as heard from. The temperature ranged nearly at summer heat prior to the storm. In passing over the prairie the cyclone took away everything it touched, leaving the earth bare of grass.

THE CROOK LOCATED.

An Express Money Clerk Makes A Big "Touch" and Ships.

Kansas City, Nov. 28.—George E. Ross, missing money clerk of the Pacific and United States Express companies, has been located in St. Louis by the surety company that furnished his bond and is now under surveillance by them.

Last Sunday there was handled through the office over which Ross presided money packages containing $110,000. Already $2,800 of the amount is known to be missing and the books are still being gone over. The officials fear the whole $110,000 may never have reached its destination.

Snow as High as Houses.

St. Paul, Nov. 28.—A special from Langdon, N. D., says. The worst blizzard ever known in this country raged here. The snow is piled in drifts as high as the houses. All trains and traffic of every description is abandoned. There are rumors of loss of life, but nothing definite is yet known. A special from Williston, N. D., says: It has snowed incessantly since Tuesday evening. The wind is blowing at 40 miles an hour and the temperature is at zero and falling. All trains are tied up.

A Tale of Horror.

Greenville, O., Nov. 28.—Mrs. Daniel Huber and her daughters, Callie, 18, and Nellie, 15, heretofore highly respected and received in the best society, were fined for keeping a disreputable house. Mrs. Huber says she sold the virtue of her daughters to keep her younger children from starving to death. She gave the names of men who had called on the 15-year-old girl and they will be arrested under the age-of-consent act.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

INTERVIEW WITH FORAKER.

He Is Asked About Senatorial Situation in Ohio.

Cleveland, Nov. 28.—Senator-elect Joseph B. Foraker came to Cleveland on legal business and called on Chairman W. Hanna at the latter's office in the Perry-Payne building. They were closeted for a little over half an hour.

Afterward Mr. Foraker said: "I merely called on Mr. Hanna to pay my respects and will run down to Canton in the morning to call on Major McKinley. My visit has no political significance whatever."

"Was the senatorial situation mentioned?"

"It was not, except that we did speak of the newspaper stories. But there is nothing in them, nothing at all."

"Do you think Senator Sherman would accept the state portfolio?"

"I don't know. I have not seen Senator Sherman in some time. I can not tell whether he would accept the portfolio of state or not. I do not think he has been asked yet."

"Is not Governor Bushnell a candidate for senatorial honors?"

"I don't think he has said anything to indicate that. Governor Bushnell is a candidate for renomination as governor of Ohio."

"In case Senator Sherman should go into the cabinet, do you think Mr. Hanna would be a strong senatorial candidate?"

"Mr. Hanna is a very strong man, but I don't think there is anything in these stories."

"Would Mr. Hanna have support for the senate?"

"That is hardly a proper question to ask. Politics is kaleidoscopic, you know, and changes are continual and sometimes unexpected. We think much of this talk is largely for the purpose of showing trouble and factional strife in the Republican ranks, whereas as a matter of fact the Republican party in Ohio was never more united and harmonious than now. There are no differences or troubles between Mr. McKinley, Mr. Hanna, Senator Sherman and myself."

"Do you think the Dingley bill will pass?"

"My opinion is," replied Mr. Foraker, "that it would be wiser to postpone that legislation until the next congress, which will be a Republican one, when a tariff bill of our own could be introduced."

Not Hanged Till Dead.

Tuskegee, Ala., Nov. 28.—Henry Dawson was hanged by the sheriff for murder and 15 minutes after the drop the body was cut down, placed in a coffin and turned over to friends, who started with it in a wagon for the country. Just outside of town they pried the coffin lid off, uncorked a bottle of whisky and Dawson immediately sat up and took a drink. He recovered completely.

Kentucky's Official Vote.

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 28.—The state canvassing board's official voting gives Kask, the leading Republican elector, 218,171 votes, and Smith, the leading Democratic elector, 217,830 votes. The count gives McKinley 12 out of 13 electors.

WORDS FAILED HIM.

Impossible to Express by the Use of Words the Benefit Received from

Dr. WHEELER'S NERVEVITALIZER

Nervous prostration is commonly regarded as an American disease. In fact it is almost wholly unknown in foreign countries. The medical profession in general agree with Dr. Wheeler that it is not a disease, but a condition of the nervous system; which comes on gradually and is caused by excessive use of nerve vigor. Any loss of vital energy may and will lead to nervous prostration unless stopped. The most marked symptoms of the condition leading to nervous prostration are sleeplessness, excessive anxiety and fretful worry. Dr. Wheeler devoted his life to the study and proper method of treating the nervous system. His success is unquestionable. Thousands of persons have cheerfully testified that Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer cures nervous prostration in its worst form. The following words from D. C. Robinson, Tiro, Ohio, bears out our statement: "I believe Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer to be the best medicine for the nerves on earth. The doctor pronounced my case nervous prostration. My greatest trouble was sleeplessness. I simply could not get to sleep; even opiates had no effect upon me. After doctoring a long time I became discouraged and resorted to the use of Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer. The consciousness of the relief that it gave me is beyond my power to describe. Even the first dose relieved me. I kept on taking it until it completely cured me."

Visibility of Lights at Night.

The results of the experiments in light visibility conducted by the international committee on behalf of the governments of the United States, Germany and the Netherlands have been handed in. The German section gave as the distance at which a light of 1 candle power became visible 1.40 miles for a dark, clear night, and 1 mile for a rainy night. The American experiments show that a light of one candle power is visible at 1 mile and one of three candle power is plainly visible at 2 miles. A 10 candle power light was seen with a binocular at 4 miles, one of 25 at 5 miles, though faintly, and one of 85 candles at the same distance without difficulty.

To be on the safe side the experiments were made with green light, as it has been conclusively proved that if a light of that color fills the required tests a red light of the same intensity will more than do so.

It was found that the candle power of green light which remained visible at 1, 2, 3 and 4 miles was 2, 15, 51 and 106 respectively. It was noticed, however, that great care had to be exercised in the selection of the shade of the color, so as to give the minimum interference with the intensity of the light. The shade adopted is a clear blue green. Yellow and grass green should not be employed. The tests may be of interest to railroad men and seamen.—Progressive Age.

A Man Is No Hero to His Typewriter.

The mystery of men's lives in the world, out of which illusions are spun, has always had a greater influence in determining the fate of women than is readily admitted. To feel transmitted through the ring finger the electric thrill of business, of politics, of clubs, of the stirring movements in the life of men, gives any woman vantage ground over others of her sex. But in the actual commerce of business, the community of affairs, the wear and tear of daily life in offices and elevators, this mystery vanishes. A couple of typewriters at luncheon will illustrate badly a situation yet too new to be fairly reckoned up. Over knife and fork they will match employers as small boys do punies.

Bonnie Pasha.

Bonnie Pasha, the chief of the sultan's private police, is a plump, thick-set Frenchman. In 1881 he went to Constantinople as a detective with the French ambassador. Abdul Hamid took a fancy to him and desired him to organize a detective force for service about the palace. A corps of bandit men was the result, and their tactics much surprised the Parisian agent, Soudais, a few years ago, when he invited his colleague's help in arresting a notorious thief. Tapping at the malefactor's door, the Turkish official fell to earth the servant who opened it, and the party proceeded through the house, knocking insensible everybody they met. Soudais was busily engaged in succoring the wounded, while Bonnie collared the real criminal. Bonnie has a comfortable house in Pera, and his wife, as court dressmaker, has considerably increased his savings.—New York Tribune.

Source of Her Confidence.

Uncle George—I really can't understand you, Hattie. All the married women you know say have made bad matches, and yet you are quite ready to try matrimony yourself.

Hattie—Don't you know, Uncle George, that there's an excellent chance of getting a prize in a lottery where so many of the blanks have been drawn?—Boston Transcript.

MOVEMENTS OF WEYLER.

He Visits the Frontiers at Artemisa. Arrest of a Lieutenant. Havana, Nov. 28.—Captain General Weyler arrived safely at Mariel, where he was received by the authorities and large crowds of people. He immediately started for Artemisa, and on arriving there visited the hospitals, found them in an improved sanitary state and the health of the troops generally better.

From Artemisa the captain general went on the Vuelta Abajo, by train leaving the cavalry, and the Brigadier General Calisto Ruiz to join him later. General Weyler is recovering from his wound in the thigh. It has been determined upon medical consultation not to remove the ball. General Weyler is accompanied by his chief of staff, General Estrada, and his aide-de-camps.

C. B. Pendleton, a correspondent of a New York paper, was arrested here while upon the point of embarking for Key West on the steamer Arkansas. It is believed that his detention is due to the fact that there was something wrong with his passport or other papers.

Frank James' Ambition. St. Louis, Nov. 28.—Frank James, a brother of Jesse James, the noted train robber, and ex-member of the James gang of outlaws, is an aspirant for the honors of a St. Louis police commissioner, and Chief Harrison will be his friend in the race. The outlaw declares himself a candidate. "I'm not out after office," he declared, "but I'd take the place if it were offered to me. And if it were given to me I would do my duty without fear or favor."

Yuribide Defeated.

Washington, Nov. 28.—Judge Bradley of the district supreme court refused to grant Prince Yuribide of Mexico a mandamus to compel the Metropolitan club of this city to reinstate him in membership. The case was a sequel to the expulsion of Yuribide for alleged circulation of scandalous charges against the daughter of a member of the club to whom he had been engaged to be married.

British Cruiser at Manila.

Hongkong, Nov. 28.—There has been a continuous exchange of telegraphic messages recently between the British consul at Manila and the Hongkong government. As one of the results the British second class cruiser Pique has gone to the Philippine islands.

His Leg Shot Off.

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 28.—Young Gus Arnold, son of Rev. T. N. Arnold, and a brother of Dalton and Henry Arnold who are now fighting in the Cuban army, was accidentally shot while hunting, and his right leg was amputated.

Storm in Kentucky.

Paducah, Ky., Nov. 28.—A severe storm swept over western Kentucky. Wires are down and all roads are choked by fallen trees. One house was destroyed at Fulton and considerable damage was done there.

Elites His Friend.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 28.—Ben Hutson, a tough, started out to kill the town marshal, but instead murdered George Kitson, who greatly resembled the marshal. Hutson and Kitson were fast friends.

In Bryan's state, Nebraska, there was a Democratic gain of nearly 30,000. In Ohio, McKinley's state, there was a Republican loss of nearly 41,000.

Wonder what General Weyler gave thanks for last Thursday? Perhaps that he did not succeed in finding Macco, as he reported after reaching Havana.

The one Republican who has no favors to ask of McKinley is Tom Reed, but McKinley will be likely to ask favors of Reed before the Fifty-fifth Congress has been in session long.

A Washington paper says that the next congress will include eleven journalists. This is discouraging; one newspaper man would have been worth more than the entire eleven.—Chicago Times-Herald

The results of the November election, according to the official count, shows that the Democratic gain in 58 counties aggregated over 50,000, while the Republican gains in 11 counties aggregated 12,000.

The regular rate factories should form a trust, now that the demand for their products has fallen off.—Indianapolis Journal

But that seems to be the sort of factories that are most numerously starting up at the present time.

An official canvass of the votes cast for Circuit Judge in the sixteen counties comprising this District, give the following totals:
Morris, Dem., regular term, 75,000
Bohn, Rep., regular term, 56,900
Morris majority, 18,100
Finley, Dem., short term, 72,300
Black, Rep., short term, 57,500
Finley's majority, 14,800

If there be no proposition more definitely agreed upon than another by the vote of the American people in the last election it is the one for bimetalism, a double standard of gold and silver. The Democrats made that the main plank of their platform, but they had an international string to it. As an evidence Mr. Mark Hanna, who stands so close to McKinley, declares that the western farmers were won over to McKinley by Republicans or stores who advocated bimetalism on an international agreement, and Mr. Hanna is understood to say definitely that the Republican party does not claim to be a good monometallist party.

Certainly the only real gold party was the Palmer and Buckner party. They put out the only real gold standard platform, and, in all probability, they did not receive votes enough in all the United States to elect a single congressman.—Coke, and Plain Dealer.

Attorney General Monnett has rendered an opinion of the meaning of the law prohibiting sale and purchase of quail. The attorney general holds that according to the law no person is allowed to sell quail he has killed in Ohio, nor is a merchant allowed to buy a quail slain in the State during the open season. Merchants must buy their quail from parties living in another State.

John Wannamaker should be protected against his friends. Thrifty John, of New York and Pennsylvania, wants to represent one of these States in the United States Senate. He thinks there is a better chance this year in Pennsylvania and has chided his castor into the ring in the Keystone State. He is immediately endorsed by the Shoe Manufacturers' Association, one of the strong trusts of the State, which sees the advantage of having another friend of trusts and combines in the upper house of Congress.

The Philadelphia Record accuses your Uncle John Sherman, the senior Senator from Ohio, with having been on all sides of the currency question, thus accusing him of insincerity, expressing the opinion in the following concise form:

The report has been revived that the Hon. John Sherman will be made Secretary of the Treasury in order to make room in the United States Senate for Chairman Hanna. While Mr. Hanna would doubtless make a good Senator, there are some misgivings in regard to Mr. Sherman at the head of the Treasury Department. He has recently declared that the "blood-bought greenbacks" should not be redeemed; and the gradual redemption of this currency is essential to a reform of the finances. But as Senator Sherman has been on all sides of the currency question in his long career he may be brought around to a recognition of the wisdom of withdrawing the greenbacks and getting the government out of the banking business. If not, he would be an embarrassment to the success of McKimley's administration in solving the financial problem that will confront it.

For a newspaper which worked with Senator Sherman in securing the defeat of Mr. Bryan and the silver cause the Record gives him a comfortably hot shot. But it came very near telling the exact truth concerning his attitude on the currency, for he has always adapted himself to circumstances so as best to subserve his own interests.

Pinegre, governor-elect of Michigan, has been talking, and what he said sounds very much like the ante-election talk of Democrats and Populists for which they were called anarchists, destroyers of the nation's credit, and much more of that sort. In a recent interview at Canton, whither Pinegre went to see McKimley, Pinegre said in reply to the inquiry:

"Do you think there will be as much prosperity as has been promised?"

"No, I do not. There is not enough money in circulation. The great purchasing masses have not got the money to buy with. It will be two years before any real beneficial effect of increased industry is felt, and even then it will be far below what was expected. The single gold standard will not bring prosperity to the masses."

"You are not in sympathy with the gold standard?"

"No, I am not. I am a bimetalist, and I look for that cause to grow immensely within the next four years."

"What do you think of the future of silver?"

"As I told you, I am a bimetalist and I stand on that platform. The single gold standard I do not think will survive after another four years."

In another century the crude devices at present made by experimenters in air travel will appear as antiquated as the original plane or the original bicycle does now. Inventions for air travel are crowding one another thick and fast, and it is only a question of a little more time when one or more of them will be successful. If a machine can be made to rise of itself and then propel itself 300 feet through the air, it is only a matter of mechanical perfection of arrangement to make it fly 5 miles or 500. The possibility has been demonstrated. A flying ship lately undoubtedly rose in the air and moved forward 388 feet against the wind. This is enough to know. The rest will come.

He Went Cheap.

Take it all round, that is not such a bad law in Kentucky which directs that a poor no account person shall be sold to the highest bidder and made to work for what his owner can get out of him. The owner has to give his chattel clothes, board and lodging for the time during which the bill of sale holds good. The sale is at auction, the poor no account is put upon the block, or whatever stands for it, and the auctioneer sings his song: "Going, $10. Do I hear $12? Is it $12, gentlemen? Going, going, gone!"

This is better than sending a vagrant to the poorhouse and vastly better than letting him tramp the country, stealing and foraging on honest people. During at least the time for which he serves sentence he is not costing the county anything and to some extent is enjoying the luxury of earning his own living. If all the states had laws sentencing all able-bodied tramps to be sold at auction to the highest bidder for not less than six months, the authorities meanwhile guaranteeing that they should work, the tramp nuisance would be in a measure abated. Doubtless, too, some of the Weary Waggles would get in the habit of working for a living and might afterward stick to it.

A curious scene was witnessed at Elizabethtown, Ky., when the first vagrant was sold at auction under the law. The fellow was 25 years old, able-bodied and healthy. He was sold for three months. He manifested no more interest in the proceedings than a likely mule would have done. His only remark throughout was made when he was auctioned off for $12.50. He said: "Gosh, but I went cheap!"

The Barefoot Brigade.

If an early awakener in a street overlooking a park of one of our great cities were to glance out the window a little after daybreak, he would witness a swift procession of barefoot people gliding to and fro ghostlike over the dewy grass. They are not crazy. They are the people who have become entangled in the meshes of the latest hygienic fad and are taking the barefoot grass cure. This is the form of water cure for which Father Kneipp of Germany is responsible.

The patients declare one and all that they are benefited greatly by the fad—that, too, without any reference to the nature of their complaint.

No doubt. The reason of the relief is that these products of an artificial civilization while taking the barefoot steps upon the grass are also taking a step back toward that nature from which they have strayed so far. Nature created man barefoot. We have so far wandered away from the original intention that perhaps the majority of people really believe they would "take cold" if they were to set a bare foot upon the ground. The Kneipp cure patients are proving the contrary.

Let the barefoot brigade be encouraged. Healing electric currents drag through the kindly ground. Anything that brings us nearer in touch with Mother Earth is strengthening. It is a pity for the foot and health of civilized man, however, that the barefoot cure could not be taken longer than half an hour or an hour a day. In that case the chiropodist would lose his occupation.

The business depression has been so great that many physicians in cities have given up their horses and carriages and taken to the bicycle or the convenient street car lines, which have become so numerous that a horse and carriage for the city dweller in any profession is more of a luxury than a necessity. But, for the convenience of medical men who would like to keep their own vehicles and still do not care to pay for horse feed, the physician's motor cab has been invented. One which a doctor had constructed especially for his own use travels 16 miles an hour and will climb hills that have a rise of 12 feet in 100 and propel itself through a sea of mud 6 inches deep. It is true this strong vehicle weighs 1,040 pounds, but when we consider that the figures represent the weight of a horse and carriage both they do not seem so large.

Germany has been the first nation to experiment with bicycle riflemen. It is not yet known whether the experiment will prove a success. Indeed it would be strange if it did. The man who can guide a bicycle, carry a rifle, take aim, fire and hit a mark while riding and then turn and whirl away would be a man too gifted to be a common soldier. The bicycle corps could, however, do effective work by dismounting quickly from their wheels and then firing and loading. Cavalrymen in our civil war were accustomed to dismount and fight on foot in a battle.

There is hope for the bicycle manufacturers whose business is falling to pieces. It is found in the market for wheels that will open up among the Indian tribes. The Otoe Indians of Nebraska are changing their ponies for bicycles as rapidly as they can. They are enthusiastic over the steel horse. The reason they give presents in four words the logic of the situation. It is this: "Ride faster; no feed."

Senor Enrique de Varona on the slaughter of the 51 innocent prisoners of war by Weyler in Cuba: "This abominable butchery in cold blood will teach the United States that Spain does not improve or repent."

GOLF.

"It's Just a Game." It's Just the Only Game.

That evening while Wilkinson was smoking a pipe in his garden and trying to water a plant with a half inch hose, emitting a quarter of a pint in five minutes Peter McGourcock looked over the fence and passed the time of day.

"You'll have a club here, of course?" asked Peter.

"Oh, rather," replied Wilkinson. "No end of clubs. We've a capital tennis club, and a croquet club, and a river club, and a bicycle club, and."

But Wilkinson drew up suddenly, thrown on his haunches, for the gray eye of Peter McGourcock, which should have been ablaze with enthusiastic interest, was pale with a strong contempt.

"But how about the club?" he asked.

"Club?" said Wilkinson. "Why—well—we've all those clubs. What more?"

"I was not asking about these trivial things," said McGourcock. "Where's yer golf club?"

"Oh? Oh—why—we haven't—er—exactly any golf club—that is, not just yet. Is it a good sort of game?" said poor Wilkinson.

Peter looked him all over very slowly, then looked the boss all over very slowly, then Wilkinson's garden, then Wilkinson's house, right up to the top of the new Louvre pot, then, repeating very slowly, "Es—ot—a—good—sort—of—game?" he turned away and disappeared into his drawing room.

For days after that poor Wilkinson, while watering the big oak with the half inch hose, would cast furtive glances at the McGourcock tapping the little white ball into the little hole in the lawn, and at times, he could perceive, with the tail of his eye, Peter McGourcock eying him over, or portions of his property, and at times he could hear the muttered words, "Es et a good sort of game?"

At length Wilkinson made a heroic effort to put matters on a less painful footing. He looked over the fence at Peter, who was doing something to a golf iron with a file, and said cheerfully, but with a dreadful nervousness within:

"If it—er—when you could spare ten minutes, I should take it as a favor if you would teach me to play golf."

"Ten minutes, ye say?" said Peter, using that horrid eye of his.

"Well, well, of course I don't mean to say I could learn in ten minutes—ha, ha—ridiculous, of course," said poor Wilkinson. "But if you'd kindly teach me the stroke!"

"Sirr," said Peter, "a man cannot be taught golf."

"Well—of course I don't mean to say—that is—but a fellow might try to learn."

"Golf," said Peter, "is not a thing that a man can learn."

"Well, but—hang it all—how do people ever play? People do play golf, don't they?"

"Play!" said Peter. "And what might ye mean by 'play'?"

"Why—well, confound it. Don't you see people knocking confounded little white balls over confounded obstacles with things like that you're flogging at?"

Poor Wilkinson was turning. Even Wilkinsons will turn.

"Ah," replied Peter, "ye see people do that, and many's the number of them, but ye talked of playing. Sirr, of a man begins golf when he's put into short clothes and devotes his life to it (excepting the Sabbath only, that was specially ordained for him to repaint balls and see to things), and of it's granted to that man at the close of a long life to arrive at the knowledge that he knows nothing of golf, that man can die a happy man, and when he's finally holed he will not have lived in vain. Aye," continued Peter suddenly, "it's a good sort of game. It's just a game game. It's just the only game."

Cheap.

A party of actors were telling stories in the cafe of the Waldorf one afternoon last winter. One of them, a very brilliant and humorous chap, whose education has been acquired solely by contact with people, made a slip of the tongue which was noticed by another member of the party, who sarcastically said: "If one other man were here, this gathering would be complete."

"Who's that?" queried the comedian who had made the error.

"Lindley Murray."

"Eh!" exclaimed the humorous chap. "There ain't a man in the room who couldn't make Lindley Murray look like 30 cents."—New York Herald.

Paine's Celery Compound

With the return of cool weather hosts of men and women who relied on their summer vacation to make them strong and well came home still tired, with poor appetites and depressed by the thought of the months of hard work ahead.

Men and women getting along in years find a remarkable increase in vigor and a brighter, more cheerful state of mind from the use of this great remedy.

Don't mope along and submit to indigestion, liver disorder, catarrhal headaches or rheumatism. Paine's celery compound will make you strong and keep you so.

Its nourishing, health-making virtues have been so carefully considered, and so exactly fitted to the needs of the tired, exhausted body, that its work does not have to be done after it. David Hirsch, the well known Broadway merchant, New York City, writes as follows to Wells, Richardson &amp; Co.:

"I am advocating Paine's celery compound among my many friends, because it has done me so much good in a very short space of time. I have been suffering years from indigestion, and all its attendant ills, sleeplessness included. I lost about 30 pounds in weight and getting weaker and more nervous every day. I was unable to stand exterior any kind, and I used to cry myself for a short distance."

"After taking two bottles of Paine's celery compound, I feel in every respect stronger, more cheerful and willing to live. I will certainly never forget the effects of Paine's celery compound upon my system, and I wish to state that I am past 65 years of age. Took a Swim in Beer.

It was a queer accident which befell Charles Roberts, chief engineer of the Stein brewery. At 6 o'clock, after the machinery had stopped, Roberts climbed upon a large beer vat for the purpose of putting a new rim around the top. He placed his foot upon the edge of the vat and began working. His foot slipped, and he fell over into seven feet of beer which was ready to run out into kegs. The cask is 15 feet deep, and beer was over Roberts' head. He was crying for help, but no one heard. He was unable to "let down," for of drowning. He was forced to around the vat for almost five minutes before assistance arrived, when workmen fished him out with hooks and ladders. Louisville Post.

JENNY LIND'S DEBUT.

Never Had a Prima Donna So Charmed an American Audience.

Hon. A. Oakley Hall writes of "When Jenny Lind Sang in Castle Garden," for The Ladies' Home Journal. Of her first appearance—her first song—in America and the unprecedented enthusiasm she aroused, Mr. Hall entertainingly and graphically writes: "Hark to the voice! It is beginning the first bar of 'Casta Diva,' from 'Norma.' The silence in the audience is intense. She has sung only a few bars of the matchless cavatina before all music lovers recognize that while other artists have endeavored to make something out of 'Casta Diva,' Jenny Lind is embodying it. There is the gradual growth of sustenuto, then rhythmic undulating, now high notes, as triumphs of pure expression, and not of merely physical marvel, and finally birdlike ecstasy of trills. Before her is an abyss of hush, into which she pours that voice, the very soul of song. She ceases, and timidly—not proudly—bows and is retiring when the audience, not content with making the usual American demand for an encore, breaks into a mad, and repeats with fourfold energy and spirit the almost frantic demonstration with which it greeted Jenny Lind upon her entrance. The audience is hysterically wild. Never has a singer so stirred her listeners before. The thunderous applause keeps up for many minutes, until the audience seems exhausted."

"Trained musicians are praising the melody and precision of Jenny's chromatic scales. One is emphasizing what he terms 'the inspired vitality of Lind's voice,' and the unanimous verdict seems to be that never were heard in concert room sweeter tones. Even white haired veterans, who have listened to Malibran and her sister Viardot, or to Giesi, or to Adelaide Keable, all pronounce Jenny Lind the superior of those old time song angels in realms consecrated by Saint Cecilia."

X Rays Show Bone Movements.

With an improved arrangement of the Crookes tube the movement of bones in living human bodies could be seen with startling distinctness in a series of experiments at the University of Michigan physical laboratory recently. The heart could also be observed, although less well defined in outline than the bones. These experiments are made under the direction of Professor Carhart, Dean Vaughan and Drs. Herdman and Mott.

TO AID THE CRIPPLED

HOW THE AMERICAN BENEVOLENT ASSOCIATION AIMS TO WORK.

Hopes to Establish State Institutions for Their Relief—Plan Contemplates Headquarters in Chicago, to be Later Extended Into Various States.

A new society is now being organized, called the American Benevolent Association. Its object is to establish a hospital or hospitals for the treatment of cripples, afterward assisting them to find employment or homes. As there is no place in the United States where indigent cripples are specially treated, Chicago has been suggested by many as the best location for the headquarters of the several state institutions which the association hopes to establish.

There is no class of sufferers that the public has so persistently neglected as the cripple and none who stands more in need of sympathy and treatment.

Dr. H. R. Allen, founder of the National Surgical Institution of Indianapolis and organizer of the American Benevolent Association, has established headquarters on the sixth floor of the Masonic temple, Chicago.

Dr. Allen, in an interview, said: "Our plan is first to locate headquarters, or the parent institution, in Chicago. When this is completed, we hope to establish branch institutions in each state capital, each legislature to appropriate something toward the support of its local hospital."

Many charitable men and women have written endorsing the plan and offering assistance to promote such work in the several states in which they live.

"It is a mistake," said Dr. Allen, "to suppose, as many do, that 'once a cripple always a cripple,' if one has been born in such a condition. It is a prevalent opinion that nothing can be done after maturity is reached. It is often oversight or the neglect of a simple remedy on the part of the surgeon which produces deformities and leaves the child without hope, unable to earn his living. What we want is a place where all may have the benefit of modern discoveries, appliances and treatment."

An investigation was started during President Harrison's administration to ascertain how many cripples were living in the United States. No thorough system was followed, but about 600,000 names were obtained.

Many prominent men, who are interested in philanthropic projects, have given their endorsement to the idea of state institutions for the treatment of cripples. The prevailing idea seems to be that it is as much the duty of the state to assist the cripple and deform as it is the blind and deaf. Concerning the project Bishop Fallows says:

"I have had favorable opportunities of seeing the excellent results which have followed the treatment of crippled children and adults by our modern surgical methods. I therefore cordially approve of the establishment of a national headquarters in Chicago for the care of such cases."

"It should be just as much the duty of the state to assist in their treatment as in the treatment of the insane, the deaf and dumb and other unfortunate. Statistics seem to show that more than 1 in every 100 of our population are cripples. Simple humanity demands that they be cared for."—Chicago Tribune.

"I'M GOING TO DIE."

An interesting and singular incident of a pronouncement of death has just been brought about through the death of little Jimmie Wickersham of Greenfield, O. He died Monday and was not yet 4 years of age.

Five days previous to his death, when apparently in the best of health, he came to his papa, and in his childish prattle said, "Papa, I'm going to be sick, awful sick, and I'm going to die." Within three days afterward he contracted a severe cold, but it was not considered serious. Nothing further was thought of his remarks of the previous day until Sunday evening, when he was taken suddenly worse, and he again repeated what he had told his papa to his grandpa, and at an early hour yesterday morning he died.

His childish words of but a few days previous were proved to be only too true. It is the talk of the community as being a most remarkable case of pronouncement in one so youthful.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Journalism Up North.

Those who have witnessed the struggles of The News during the past two weeks to issue a paper printed on wrapping paper, butchers' paper, wall paper, or any old kind of paper we could get to print on will appreciate our feelings while waiting for the Topekas to arrive with a supply of regular stock. The boat was due Wednesday evening, but, owing to heavy and continuous fogs, was delayed and did not reach here till Friday evening, during which time the forms were lying on the press waiting for paper, and the business manager of this triumph of nineteenth century journalism was pulling his hair out by the handfuls.—Alaska News.

Railroad Must Pay For a Conductor's Kiss.

Needless Anxiety.

After Weyler gets through with Cuba it is hinted he may decide to take a fall out of the United States. But don't let that keep you from getting your winter supply of coal housed before the cold weather sets in.—Cleveland Leader.

FRUIT BEARING SHRUBS.

The holly (barberry) belongs to far foremost ornamental fruit bearing shrubs and retains fruit during the winter months. There are several species, which are also quite pretty for foliage effects, and this is especially true of the purple leaved barberry and B. thimbergii. The latter is one of the prettiest low growing shrubs in cultivation, either planted in clumps as single specimens on the lawn or used for a low hedge. Its pretty scarlet berries are retained on the plant all winter.

Symphoricarpos (snowberry) is another shrub that lends attractiveness to our gardens by its showy fruit. The name "snowberry" is applied to the variety racemosa, that is too well known to need any description. Symphoricarpos vulgaris (coral berry or Indian currant) is, like the first mentioned, also well known and a native of our northern states. This is far more showy on account of its numerous red berries, which are kept on the plant all winter. It is not a tall growing shrub, seldom attaining a height over four feet, and its graceful pendulous habit makes it very desirable. The variegated form of this species is quite ornamental for range foliage effect.

Enonymus (spindle tree, burning bush, wahoo, strawberry bush) are all ornamental in fall and late autumn, by reason of their crimson fruit, borne on long pendant stalks. The European species, as also the native one (E. atropurpureus), are quite tall growing, and often form small trees, whereas E. americanus does not often attain a height of over five feet, and its variety obovatus is a low trailing shrub. The last named is fine for undergrowth in shady nooks or dense woods or for creeping over the rocks. Its red berries at this time not only give life and color, but the fruit, which is desired as much as the flowers for ornament and effect, explains the author of the foregoing in American Gardening.

Palms For Amateurs.

Eben E. Rexford, in an exhaustive article on palms, written for The Ladies' Home Journal, says:

The best varieties of palm for amateurs to undertake the cultivation of are: Latania borbonica, the fan palm; Phoenix reclinata, of spreading habit; Areca lutescens, very graceful and of easy cultivation; Kentia belmoreana and fothergiana, two popular and beautiful varieties; Sierothia elegans, a stately kind with long and finely arching fronds; Rhapis flabelliformis, a kind sending up several stems from the crown, unlike most varieties, thus giving us a more compact plant than any of the other kinds named. Palms do not require such large pots as many amateurs give them. To give one a large pot while it is still a small plant is a mistaken kindness. Wait until the old pot is well filled with roots before shifting it. In repotting disturb the roots as little as possible.

The Calla.

The white calla is too familiar to need description. The little gem calla is a pygmy rarely exceeding 12 inches in height, with flowers not more than half the size of the ordinary calla lily. The spotted leaf calla differs from the ordinary calla only in respect to its foliage, the dark green leaves being spotted with white. The black calla, according to Peter Henderson's catalogue, comes from

A BLACK CALLA.

The Holy Land. It produces one large flower the shape of a calla, but from 14 to 18 inches long and 4 inches broad, and of a rich, dark purple color and green underneath, somewhat wavy at the borders and curled at the smaller end. The spathe rising from the center of the flower is about 10 inches long, velvetlike and quite black. It is raised on a slender but vigorous stalk of brown red, shading to green at the upper end. The leaves are large and very wavy, of a rich green color, veined light green.

Flowering Bulbs.

The hardy bulbs expected to flower next spring are planted with few exceptions any time during autumn until the ground freezes. Hyacinths, tulips, narcissus, jonquils, crocuses, scillas, snowdrops and similar bulbs are hardy enough to survive our ordinary winters, especially when the ground is covered with snow, yet all that is necessary to protect them against the severest cold even is a covering of three or four inches of forest leaves, held down with brush or evergreen branches.

PLYMOUTH ROCKS.

Why They Are More Numerous Than All Other Thoroughbreds.

The Plymouth Rock fowl is too well known, admired and profitably raised from the inhospitable limits of the British possessions in the north to the boundaries of the United States on the south, from the Atlantic coast on the east to the Pacific coast on the west, and it has crossed the waters, finding a welcome in the countries beyond the seas and on the islands thereof, until today in America there are more Plymouth Rocks bred than there are of all other so called "thoroughbreds" combined.

It is pertinent to inquire why this is so. The answer need require but few words—it is pre-eminently an all purpose

PRIZE WINNING BARRER PLYMOUTH ROCKS. These fowls, adapted from its hardiness, to all climates, and equally at home and ready for business in any of them. It is a universal hustler, and the best market poultry bird ever known, having the size, shape, and habits that everywhere, other conditions being equal, return the most dollars and cents for feed and labor given. As a general proposition, all domestic fowls end, if profitable, by "going to the pot." The Plymouth Rock pays as well as any, performs its mission living as well as any—better than most—and pays better than any other breed which it goes to market, its earthly career ended. This last quality is the secret of the success of the Plymouth Rock.

Hen Rocks.

Seeing a farmer near me building a new henhouse the other day, I took occasion to give him a new idea. He was putting in his roosts in the old fashioned way, one being above the other on an angle of about 45 degrees. In this way the fowls are led to attempt to get upon the highest roost, and as it gets full, the weak ones are crowded off and fall to the ground. They begin again to climb up, only to repeat again the same performance, until it gets so dark that they stop climbing, resting content upon the lower roost, or even upon the ground under the roosts. In the morning the fowls will not go down as they went up, from one roost to another, but fly from the roost to the ground. In this way and by falling from the roost to the ground at night heavy fowls, especially when very fat or full of eggs, are often crippled in the legs or otherwise injured. Many likely hens I have seen completely spoiled in this way. I told him I should build the roosts all the same height and no more than 2 1/2 feet from the floor, putting them about 15 inches apart. Before I left I had the satisfaction of seeing him commence to undo the work he had done and to build his roosts as I suggested and of hearing an old farmer who was present declare his intention of taking out his roosts, which were of the "ladder" style, and putting in new ones, level and lower.—Farmers' Voice.

Light and Eggs.

Light influences the laying on the part of the hens. Put a flock in a dimly lighted poultry house, and no matter how comfortable it may be fowls will cluster together in some corner outside and brave all the storms that may come in preference to remaining in a dark and cheerless abode. Chicks also prefer light and will remain outside of the brooder and become chilled rather than go under the cover where it is warm but dark. All birds have an instinctive dread of darkness. As soon as the sun begins to set they seek a safe retreat before darkness comes, and bright and early in the morning they go where it is light. The poultry house should have large windows. There are those who affirm that too much glass radiates the heat, but it also admits heat and light as well as rendering the interior of the house cheerful and inviting. As the hens will be more contented they will also be more thrifty, have better appetites, be less liable to disease and will produce more eggs during the winter.

Lookout For the Ducks.

Ducks become weak in the legs and die when fed too much grain, and they cannot be fed the same food as the hens without liability of loss, yet farmers will feed all kinds of poultry together and on the same food. A duck's egg is very large, and as ducks lay nearly every day after they begin, the tax on them in egg production is a severe one. What they require most is animal food and bulky material, such as lean meat or ground meat and cut clover, scalded, though bran and ground oats, moistened, should also be allowed. Just as soon as the ducks indicate lameness it is a sure sign that too much grain is being fed and the nitrogenous food insufficient.

White Guinea.

It pays to have a few white guineas on the farm. The egg is not large, but it has a fine flavor and comes in greatest abundance about the time your prize Plymouth Rocks are molting. The white guinea is not to be despised as a table fowl, having a rich yellow skin and delicate, fine grained flesh.

A CLANKING GHOST.

"The most disagreeable experience in my travels," said the man from Chicago, "was when I awakened in the middle of the night in a Missouri hotel and heard a chain clank in my room. I don't know whether it is the association of a clanking chain that makes the sound so dismal or the mere fact of being awakened by a noise that shows the presence of something living, but I don't know of a more unpleasant awakening."

"I sat up in bed, but could see nothing, for the room was as dark as a peck. And my heart thumped with suspense as I heard that weird clank, clank, clank, accompanied by a strange shuffling noise that was quite as mysterious and baffling. I reached under my pillow and drew out my pen."

"Revolver?" suggested the man who finishes everybody's sentences.

"Now, my whisky flask. I took a pull that would have made my wife give me a temperance lecture if she could have seen me."

"And what became of it?"

"The whisky?"

"No, no, the clanking ghost."

"Well, I fell off to sleep after awhile, and when I got up in the morning and investigated, I found out what it was."

"A maniac?"

"No! I was the only maniac. It was curled up under my bed, chain and all, and it turned out to be a pet coon that the hotel people owned and which had escaped from its quarters and found its way to my room. But I wouldn't put in another night like that for a farm and wood lot!"—St. Louis Republic.

A Check For $700.

There was once a comedian who entertained Edward E. Rice. Startling as the statement may seem, it is nevertheless true that when this farcical retired manager died, To Mr. Rice the condition was not alone unusual—it was also irksome. One morning, when he was fretting under it, he learned that the actor had secured a first rate engagement at a large salary. He sat down and wrote an urgent letter, finishing with a demand for an immediate remittance of "a check for 700." In due course he received a communication by mail containing a heavy metallic disk. The letter read:

"Dear Ned—Yours received. Find enclosed, as requested, check for 700."

The metallic disk was a C. B. & Q. railroad baggage check numbered 700.—New York Herald.

The first manufactory of edged tools, including axes, hatchets, chisels and cutlery, was opened in Hartford, in the year 1896. Previous to that date it is said that coarse butcher knives and branding knives were made by blacksmiths, and the better quality of cutlery was imported from England.

Loved the Bottle Before He Had Teeth.

At No 82 Warwick Ave., Zanesville, O., lives Mrs. R. H. Mills, who relates the following experience: "All have used Dr. Hand's Teething Lotion and find it all that it claims to be. Our little boy cut his teeth so hard that he almost had a pain. Bathing his gums with the Lotion would relieve him immediately. He knew the bottle better than all others and would cry for it. I advise every mother who has teething children to use Dr. Hand's Teething Lotion." As all druggists, 25c.

Grippe Cured.

"Last winter I had a bad cold and severe cough. I was lame in every joint and muscle. I was sick and felt as though I was coming down with typhoid fever. It was no doubt a bad case of grippe. Mr. E. P. Budge gave me a bottle of Brazilian Balm, saying he was sure it would help me. The relief was almost instantaneous. It quickly stopped my cough and took the grippe with all the pains and soreness out of my system. I gave the balance of the 50-cent bottle to Mrs. Bishop Wiley for her daughter. It proved so beneficial she says she never intends to be without it."—Edwin Fitz Jones, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Ian Maclaren's Latest Novel.

Ian Maclaren's first long novel. The scene is "Drumtochty," and many of the characters in Reside the Bonnie Briar Bush and In the Days of Auld Lang Syne reappear in its pages. It tells the love story of Carmichael, a Covenanting minister, and Kate Carnegie, a girl of Jacobite descent, and the strains between their mutual love and the outside, and their political and religious differences on the other. It furnishes material for a story full of delightful situations in which the author's power to move the reader's sympathies and to appeal to his sense of humor is as great as ever.

Does every one know the meaning of home? We fear they do not. It should be the dearest spot on earth, a place of rest, contentment and happiness. Riches do not enter into the consideration of a home. In fact, there are more homes that are really homes among the poorer classes than the rich. Our customers, both rich and poor, have added many beautiful and useful articles to their homes, adding contentment and happiness without cost. Our enterprise in this direction is seemingly appreciated, viewing the increase in our business.

"GUILTY,"

Said George Peck, When Arraigned Before the Judge.

OTHERS PLEAD NOT GUILTY.

Four Indicted Persons Fail to Appear—Circuit Court Renders Decision—Adjourns Sine Die—Other Court News.

At nine o'clock this morning Judge Richie opened court and ordered the prosecutor to proceed with the arraignment of the persons indicted by the grand jury.

George Peck was the first one called. He said the clerk could omit the reading of the indictment, and when asked what he desired to plead, replied "Guilty, Your Honor." Peck was indicted on the charge of assault and battery for knocking detective Wiles, of the C. H. & D. from a bicycle and otherwise assaulting him. The Judge informed Mr. Peck that later on he would be sentenced and that he would be informed as to the time when he should again appear before the court.

Jaskulek was the second one arraigned and entered a plea of not guilty. He has two charges pending against him. The first one as set forth in the indictment, is for stealing from the C. H. & D. railroad two hundred sixty brasses valued at $228. The second is for stealing and carrying away property which he knew to have been stolen. This case was tried first in Justice Mowen's court, and the defendant was bound over to common pleas court. He was allowed by the court to be at liberty under the same bond which he gave to Justice Mowen. He will be represented by Motter and Mackenzie and Brotherton and Brotherton.

John Rice was the next arraigned. He is charged with having set fire to his shoe shop on north Main street, the night of the 11th of July, 1895, with the purpose to prejudice, damage and defraud the Connecticut Insurance company. To this charge he pleaded not guilty, and he was allowed to go under the same bond he was placed under when arrested. He will be defended by Motter & Mackenzie and James Weak.

Newton Raines was arraigned on a charge similar to that of Jaskulek's. He is charged with having stolen 260 brasses from the C. H. & D. company and with having concealed brasses which he knew had been stolen. He entered a plea of not guilty and was allowed to go under his present bond. He will be defended by Motter & Mackenzie.

Dan Bowers was the last one arraigned. The indictment charged him with having assaulted and ravished the person of Pearl Wells, a thirteen-year old girl, on October 26, 1896. He pleaded not guilty to the charge, and Prophet & Eschman, as his counsel, will appear in his defense.

Charles Buck, Mrs. Wade, Mrs. Elizabeth Lacey and Mrs. Chipman failed to make their appearance, and the sheriff was instructed to see that on next Monday morning at 9 o'clock they appear in court and plead to the indictments found against them.

SUDDENLY CALLED.

WAS ILL ONLY ONE HOUR.

Remains to be Interred at Beaver Dam Tomorrow.—Remains of Samuel Black Taken to Louisville, Ky., To-day for Burial.

Jacob L. Martin, an old and well known resident, died at his home, 1132 east Waynestreet, at 10 o'clock last night, from heart trouble, after a very brief illness. His death occurred even more suddenly and unexpectedly than the death of Samuel Black, whose sudden demise was announced in the TIMES-DEMOCRAT yesterday.

Mr. Martin seemed to be enjoying his usual health all day yesterday, and in the afternoon walked to an oil lease quite a distance from his home, to see one of his son's who is a pumper. He ate a hearty supper after returning home, and retired for the night quite early. About 9 o'clock he called to Mrs. Martin and announced that he was ill. A physician was hastily summoned, but at 10 o'clock the patient died.

The deceased was 65 years of age and was by trade a carpenter. His widow and six children survive him. Brief services will be held at the Martin residence at 9 o'clock to-morrow morning, and at 3:30 o'clock the funeral cortege will leave for Beaver Dam, where the funeral service proper and interment will occur.

SAMUEL BLACK'S FUNERAL.

The remains of Samuel Black, who died at the Humpston residence on west Spring street, yesterday afternoon, were taken south on C. H. & D. train 11 at 5:45 o'clock this morning, enroute to Louisville, Ky. The remains were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Hampton and a sister of the deceased from Louisville.

Mr. Black was born at Steubenville, Ohio, and was 48 years of age. He was unmarried.

The funeral services will be held either to-morrow or Monday from the home of a relative of the deceased at Louisville, and the remains will be interred in Cave Hill cemetery.

IN LIMA.

The Northwestern Ohio Teachers' Association Will Meet Next Year.

Supt. C. O. Miller returned early this morning from Bucyrus, where he had been attending the annual session of the Northwestern Ohio Teachers' Association. Mr. Miller reports that the next annual session will be held in Lima next fall, the committee being unanimous in the selection of this city. This will bring to Lima a large number of teachers and leading educational men. The membership is large, the association embracing all the teachers in the territory extending as far south as Columbus and as far east as Loudonville.

Mr. Miller says that the meeting at Bucyrus is a large one, but that the one here next year will be much larger. Those who are in attendance at the meeting are: Miss Caldwell, Miss Boyssel, Miss Carr, Miss Sayre, Miss Baum and Mr. Rogers.

Of Prof. Miller's response to the address of welcome, the Bucyrus Forum says:

"The response was delivered by Superintendent C. C. Miller, of Lima. Prof. Miller last summer won the warmest friendship and admiration of the Bucyrus public. His address was full of rhetorical grace, but graced also with gems of wit and wisdom, and earnest thought upon professional lines."

A TRESPASS

To Hunt Upon Fenced Ground Without Permission.

IMPORTANT TO HUNTERS

Who Wish to Kill Quail Upon the Farm in Allen County—Complaint to the Game Warden May Make the Sport Expensive.

In the middle of this six weeks' gunning season about every fellow who can muster a shot gun and thinks it is his duty to go where he chooses, and hunt where he pleases for rabbits, quail, etc. These gunners go over fields, break down a fence, tear up piles of fence rails, and sometimes shoot down turkeys and chickens and bag them. The farmers don't want these annoyances, and great numbers have determined to no longer suffer this trespassing, and to prosecute all found guilty of violating the law. Some persons think that sign boards forbidding hunting, fishing, trespassing upon private lands, and cautionary notices in newspapers, of little account, and that they may be disregarded with impunity. This is a mistake, as the law makes it an act of trespass to go upon cultivated or inclosed lands for any purpose without permission (even if there be no signboard), and the owner is entitled to recover actual damages for such trespass. Often it is the case that when a land owner undertakes to drive trespassers, or shoot the dogs, he is threatened with injury to his live stock and other property. The only law on the hunter's side that it is lawful to kill certain kind of game at certain seasons of the year. On the other hand, every man who enters upon another's land and hunt, is liable to a fine. And the owner has to do, under the game protection laws as they now stand, is notify the Game Warden that certain persons have been hunting trespass upon his premises, and it is made a duty of the Warden to arrest and take the trespassers before a Justice of the Peace, who will deal with accused parties by the assessment fines.

When the Catholic Knights met some time ago they decided to authorize the organization of a women's auxiliary. It is now announced that the organization has been completed and is ready to begin its work. The new organization will be known as the Catholic Ladies of Ohio. A ready service branch have been reported and others are to be organized in the near future. Mrs. H. J. W. has been appointed organist for Delphos, but has not yet signified her purpose of accepting the appointment. Life insurance is to be a leading feature of the order. The proposal of Bishop Heermans and Archbishop Elder has been accepted. —Delphos Herald.
